Alexandria, Va. (November 15, 2019) — The National Home Infusion Association (NHIA) will be hosting their 2020 Annual Conference in Denver, Colorado, April 5-9, 2020.

During the conference, held at the Gaylord Rockies, more than 1,300 home and specialty infusion industry professionals will come together for the leading education and networking event for the industry.

The International Academy of Compounding Pharmacists (IACP) will also be co-located with NHIA in Denver for their EduCon 2020 annual conference event. IACP is the voice for pharmacy compounding, bringing pharmacists, technicians and other compounding professionals together for education and networking opportunities within the industry.

At NHIA's conference, more than 100 exhibitors will be on site sharing the latest products and services in the home and specialty infusion industry, and there will be a variety of education programming for industry professionals including the RN Essentials Pre-Conference and Sterile Compounding Clinic, where attendees can learn in an interactive setting while earning continuing education credits.

Motivational speaker and author John O'Leary will be the event's keynote. O'Leary has overcome incredible odds and lived a life of inspiring others, after being burned on over 100% of his body in an explosion at nine years old.

"This is a must attend event for professionals working in the home and specialty infusion industry. We're excited to offer attendees an enriching experience with opportunities to study best practices, explore the latest products and services, and form lifelong professional bonds during our annual conference," said NHIA's President & CEO Connie Sullivan, BSPHarm.
